REDACTED Page 192 and explain to me what, if any, other reports or 2 mechanisms was Walgreens using post-2006 to 3 identify suspicious orders? 4 A. There was also line limits that were in 5 place. So, that is a process that no more than 6 a -- there is a maximum upper limit to the quantity 7 per line item that can be shipped. 8 In discussions with the inventory and DC 9 folks, they believe that line limits were in place 10 throughout this time, though until later we were 11 not able to definitively establish on what 12 products, but from their recollection they talked 13 about line limits. 14 Q. I apologize for interrupting, but help me. Are line limits different than the excessive 15 16 quantity query? 17 A. Yes. 18 Q. Okay. And, so, when you say line 19 limits, help me understand a little bit what you're 20 talking about because -- this is out of the 21 distribution center? 22 A. Correct. 23 Q. Okay. So, start from scratch. What are 24 line limits? Page 193 1 A. Line limit is, it refers to a line on 2 the order and it is the maximum quantity for a 3 particular product that that line can have the 4 quantity be. So, for example, 100 tablets of 5 alprazolam can't exceed 5 bottles on any order. 6 Q. Have you seen any reports that were 7 generated identifying orders that exceeded the line 8 limits? 9 A. The line limit would be a hard stop that 10 can't be exceeded. 11 Q. But have you seen any reports 12 identifying instances where that happened? 13 A. I have not. 14 Q. Have you seen any written policies or 15 procedures identifying what the criteria is for when that happens? 16 17 A. I have not -- I have seen e-mails and presentations that speak about what drugs were 18 19 subject to line limits, but not what the quantity 20 and the number was at the time of the line limits. 21 Q. Anything to see what the line limits 22 were, how they were created? A. We don't have written documentation as 23 24 to what the number was on the line limit. We just

Page 194 Page 196 1 1 know that it was extant. A. Correct. 2 Q. Do you know -- I'm sorry. Go ahead. 2 Q. So, again, not entirely sure what 3 A. That's it. 3 certain drugs were at any one point in time and Q. Do you know what time period the line -what the criteria was? 4 4 5 I'm just going to call it line limits -- the line 5 A. We're not able to establish what those 6 limits policy was in place? 6 were with documentation. 7 7 A. The interviews in which I conducted, Q. Okay. So, when those orders were flagged, were they suspicious? 8 they thought that they had always been in place but 8 9 they could not quantify what items at what time 9 A. They could also be suspicious. 10 were subject to those line limits. 10 Q. Okay. So, possibly suspicious like the others and the answer is yes, then? 11 There are some later documents in 2012 I 11 12 think as part of that presentation to the DEA and 12 A. Yes. 13 13 another internal document shortly thereafter that Q. Okay. The due diligence, is there any details the products that were subject to line 14 mechanism to perform due diligence on an order that 14 15 limits, but we have been unable to determine what 15 tripped the line limits? 16 the number was on the line limit. 16 A. There likely -- they would likely also 17 17 appear on the excessive quantity query. The Q. Okay. So let me make sure, going back difference here is that it would not allow, 18 to our chart, I'm going to put "Line Limits" under 18 19 the "Criteria." Does that make sense? 19 regardless of an override -- so, even if the DC A. Correct. 20 20 staff investigated and found it not to be Q. And under the "Date," I'm going to put a 21 suspicious, it's still -- they could still not 2.1 22 question mark because we're not sure, right? 22 exceed the line limit in how much product was 23 2000 forward, but we're not sure what. 23 shipped. 24 Q. Did you say "2000 forward"? 24 Q. If I put in "Due Diligence" to say a Page 195 Page 197 1 A. Yeah. 1 "Hard Stop," is that accurate? 2 Q. But not sure. I'm going to put a 2 A. Correct. 3 question mark. Is that fair? 3 Q. Okay. So, I'm going to put "Hard Stop" and then "/no" on the "Due Diligence." Is that 4 A. Fair. 4 5 5 Okay. And under the "Criteria" I'm fair? б going to put a question mark because we're not 6 A. Again, I think there would be overlap 7 7 with excessive quantity query on these. 1 A. So, I think, you know, based off of 2 interviews and with these folks that were involved, 3 there were concerns from the DEA that the previous 4 E-3 reports were overinclusive, and we sought to 5 clarify that, but in the absence of any clarity, we proceeded with this plan of action. So, I'm not a Ph.D. in math like Wayne is, but my understanding is that if it would look back at the quantities that's normally ordered by a store and it would use math to determine if that quantity was irregular and if it was irregular, it would -- it would flag it as potentially suspicious.

BY MR. MOUGEY:

Q. You just explain to me what you think Mr. Bancroft -- and I understand that it's an algorithm that is -- has a lot of Greek symbols in it.

So, why don't you just tell me in your own plain English what you think Walgreens' system that it was discussing in June of 2008 to identify suspicious orders?

A. I think it would try to identify quantities or frequencies outside of a normal pattern and then flag those as potentially suspicious.

Q. And then what would happen once they were flagged as potentially suspicious?

A. Well, phase 1 starting in '09 was a test and during that proof of concept phase, we were evaluating the flagged orders to see if they really met muster, if you will, and were something that we would consider suspicious.

So, for about ten months, they were testing the system and refining the characteristics of what might be identified.

Then in phase 2 --

Q. Can I stop you there? I apologize for interrupting.

But when you said that phase 1 was a test and during that proof of concept phase we were evaluating the orders to see if they would really pass muster.

So, what I want to know is when did phase 1 go into place based on the final algorithm from Mr. Bancroft?

13 A. So, phase 1 was producing reports in 14 August of '09.

15 Q. Okay. Now, when I say "producing 16 reports," are you saying in a pilot concept or it 17 was implemented across all of the stores?

A. Pilot concept.

Q. Pilot concept. But what I'm looking for is when was it implemented across Walgreens in its final form?

22 A. Well, the phase 2, which is based off of 23 this initial algorithm, after they tested it in the 24 proof of concept, it went live in September of 2010.

Q. Okay. So I'm back to our chart. I've now created a second page here because we ran out of room on the first one.

So, phase 1 was not operational across Walgreens. Is that right?

A. No.

Q. I'm sorry. Am I right that it wasn't operational across Walgreens?

A. Correct. It was only a proof of concept.

Q. So, if I write "Phase 1 - not operational," I'm going to just write "Proof of concept." Is that fair?

A. That's fair.

Q. Okay. And you and I know from looking at this memo that about June 2008 is when that -- I won't say started because you clearly had done some work, but at least memorialized. How's that?

Okay. So, to keep it general, should I say 2008 to 2000 and -- phase 2 was implemented in 2010 you said, right?

A. Correct.

23 Q. So, can I put 2008 to 2010 under 24 phase 1?

- Q. Okay. So, you'd agree with me that triggering frequency or tolerance, that that would possibly be a suspicious order, correct?
 - A. Possibly. However, it would be reduced before it was ever transmitted to the DC.
- Q. All right. So, under "Possibly Suspicious Orders," I'm going to put "Yes but reduced." Is that fair? Is that accurate?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. Okay. The criteria under deployed in 9/10 in phase 2 was kind of the same thing I put in this first column, "Some changes and updates," right?
 - A. Updated tolerance and frequency, yes.
- Q. All right. I'm going to put "Some changes/updates to phase 1."

Do you know what those were, what the changes and updates were?

A. They are design documents. I'm not sure if they call out specifically like in a -- like

- A. The -- yes, and the design documents that specify what the system shall do and how that will be accomplished.
- Q. So, as part of your preparation for today, no one's helped educate you on the differences between phase 1 and phase 2 in kind of a list of what the differences are, right?
 - A. Not at that level of specificity.
- Q. Quite frankly, really, can you give me any direction as to what the differences between phase 1 and phase 2 are other than just pointing me to the numerous business requirements documents generated internally?
- A. I think there were some adjustments to Steve or -- excuse me -- Wayne's formula. I don't fully understand how that -- those work.

As I said, I think they added additional. So, when it was flagged, it would have a sort of a disposition as to why. And they added additional criteria or dispositions.

And then there were times when it was -we looked at examples where it was the store changed the order, but they may have actually changed it to be less or in a way that was before and after kind of format. But I think they detail what was implemented.

- Q. Do you believe that there is specific documents that identify what the changes and updates were from phase 1 to phase 2?
- A. There's the design docs, but you'd have to compare the version 1 and version 2 design doc and draw out the differences. There was also some e-mails from Marcy and Barb that said, you know, this shouldn't be flagged or we need a new category. This is incorrectly --
 - Q. Sitting here --
 - A. -- being positioned.
- Q. Sorry. Didn't meant to interrupt you. But sitting here today you can't tell this jury with specificity what the difference is between phase 1 and phase 2 of Walgreens' suspicious order monitoring policies, can you?

- A. I think we would have to do a review of the business requirements for each phase and then produce a deliverable, yeah, that would.
- Q. When you say "business requirements," you're referring to the internal memorandum generated on an ongoing basis updating, correct?

- acceptable, but those were getting flagged because it was touched at all by the store, which was not appropriate based -- not an appropriate criteria to mark it as suspicious, only that it was touched.
- Q. So, sir, sitting here today with Bratton Exhibit 2, the First Notice of Deposition pursuant to 30(b)(6), you can't explain to the jury what Walgreens' standards and metrics were as elaborated in Mr. Bancroft's memo with any -- with any specificity other than what you just gave, correct?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. So, how the formula worked, what the formula was, what data it pulled, those aren't -- that's not information you have in response to (i) today?
- A. Those are contained in the documents.
- Q. Yes, sir. I'd have go back and kind of compare all the different business requirements documents and see if I can discern what the differences were, correct?
- 21 A. Correct.
- Q. Can you actually point me to a document that says this is phase 2, this is it?
- A. So, there's a number of documents. The

Q. Before I interrupt, I just want to make sure before you keep going. What I'm looking for is a final, final document with a final algorithm. Can you -- not a series of documents with updates.

Can you point me to a final document with a final algorithm formula?

- A. I believe that the micro design for phase 2, and that's Bates No. 492076, outlines the final formula for the system. And there is an attachment to that report that has a separate -- I thought there was.
- Q. What concerns me a little bit about your answer is you said "I believe." Is it? Is 492076 the final version of phase 2?
- A. I believe so, yes. This is what they would have built and implemented.
- Q. Okay. You just use the word "I believe" again. Is that a caveat or are you saying that is -- that is or you're not really sure?
- A. The challenge with any of our IT projects is they would begin with this design doc and as they deployed the software, if there were defects or bugs that were identified as part of

- something was changed.
- Q. Okay. You would agree with me, sir, that under (i), one of the questions we had today that Walgreens was to prepare you on was the metrics used to identify orders of unusual size, orders deviating substantially from a normal pattern and orders of unusual frequency, right?
 - A. Yes.
 - Q. And what we're discussing would fall under (i), correct?
 - A. Correct.
- Q. And, so, even sitting here after now years later, months into this litigation, Walgreens isn't able to tell us what the exact algorithm was in 2009 that was deployed, correct?
 - A. I reasonably believe, I feel, that this was what was deployed but I can't --
 - Q. You can't say for sure?
- A. I can't say with 100 percent certainty.
 - Q. Okay. Now, orders that were cut down were based on this tolerance and frequency. Were there -- was there due diligence performed on the order as it was submitted?
 - A. Other than the previously discussed

Page 219

- the -- so, any time we go through the business requirements, functional requirements, macro
- 3 design, micro design, build, test, and then pilot.
 - Q. Right.
- 5 A. As part of the pilot, it's a limited
- 6 distribution smaller number of stores.
- 7 Q. Get it.
- 8 A. As part of that pilot, they may identify9 defects in the product.
 - Q. Okay.
- 11 A. I -- we were unable to determine if 12 there were any of those documents that outlined any 13 defects --
- 14 Q. Okay.
 - A. -- that were -- would have -- might have precipitated a change during the pilot phase.
 - Q. So, the answer to my question is we're not really sure what the exact final formula or algorithm was that was actually deployed after the macro, micro, pilot, you know, any tweaks or changes right when it was deployed, right?
- A. I have no evidence that would lead me to believe it wasn't what's in the micro design, but I'm also not ruling out there is a possibility that

- diligence, no.
- Q. So, there's no one at Walgreens that's receiving these reports or the results of the phase 2 algorithm and performing due diligence on any of these?
 - A. Well, the orders after they were cut would be released to the DC and the DC would -- would perform their diligence, but I know that Barb and Marcy were still looking at these periodically as well.
 - Q. The orders that were -- that triggered the formula for tolerance and frequency and were cut, were those reported to the DEA as suspicious?
 - A. They would not have been included in the -- the Appendix 3-E report.
 - Q. Or any report for that matter?
- A. Not based on the -- they might have been in there, but they weren't included based on their being flagged in this process.
 - Q. There was no report for suspicious orders being sent to the DEA as a result of orders being cut based on tolerance and frequency, right?
 - A. Not at this time, no.
 - Q. Okay. So, "Possible Suspicious Order"

- Q. Okay. If it's not as a pharmacy or dispenser, what other capacity would Walgreens be using this system to discharge its duties on controlled substances?
- A. As I said, I think we continue to use it out of an abundance of caution. Also, I -- from my personal knowledge, my understanding is that it is for our Know Your Customer program of our distributor, they like that we have something in place to screen our orders.
- Q. Do any of the vendors that Walgreens uses -- forget it. Let me just go back.

Talk about averages for a second and Wayne Bancroft's, essentially the metrics used in the algorithm as it changes over time. Okay?

A. Um-hmm.

A. Correct.

- A. This looks like a linear regression. I don't know if this is real data or, you know, made up. But this is what it would look like typically, what's on slide or I have Bates No. 7941.
 - Q. And you're on Bates No. 7941?
- 15 A. 667941. But in the exhibit that you provided.
- Q. Yes. Let's look at Exhibit 8. It's a different Bates number. The Bates number I'm looking at is 395925. Do you see it?
 - A. Yes.
- Q. It's on "Phase 5 Functionality Ceiling
- 22 Calculation." Correct?
- A. Correct. Same one I was looking at in the other Bates number.

- Q. Do you recall anyone from in your preparation analyzing the impact of increasing dispensing of controlled substances, what impact that would have on the ceiling for Schedule II and III year to year?
 - A. Since the time that I have been involved, in February of '13, as a result of this system, you know, all the green dots in this chart are being cut off until they fall below this line.

We've generally seen almost all items declining, initially to great complaint by stores and in some cases patients and boards of pharmacies. And so I don't think that was happening. I don't recall if we specifically analyzed that exact thing, though.

Q. And I'm not asking you in your personal capacity when you began at Pharmaceutical Integrity.
